KUDANIL EXPLORER

Surf Savu Sea

An aerial photograph of a tropical coastline. In the foreground, a steep, forested cliff meets the sea, with white waves crashing against its base. A small boat is visible in the turquoise water. In the background, a bay with a sandy beach is nestled between forested land and a small, rocky island. The sky is a pale blue, and the overall scene is serene and remote.

Savu Sea Rote, Savu & Sumba

Set out from Sumba and cruise eastward across Indonesia's remote southern frontier—crossing the vast Savu Sea and exploring the wild coastline of Rote, the closest island to Australia. Chase powerful Indian Ocean swells across glassy flats and rugged reef breaks along Sumba's dramatic shores and outer reefs, with secluded beaches that feel entirely your own. Between sessions, step ashore for cultural encounters and island exploration, from intricate ikat weaving and ancestral traditions to scenic hikes across dramatic landscapes—an effortless blend of world-class surf, remoteness, and refined adventure.

Day 1

Embarkation

Arrive in Tambolaka, West Sumba, and head straight for the coast, your first wave timed just right for a sunset session.

Day 2

West Sumba

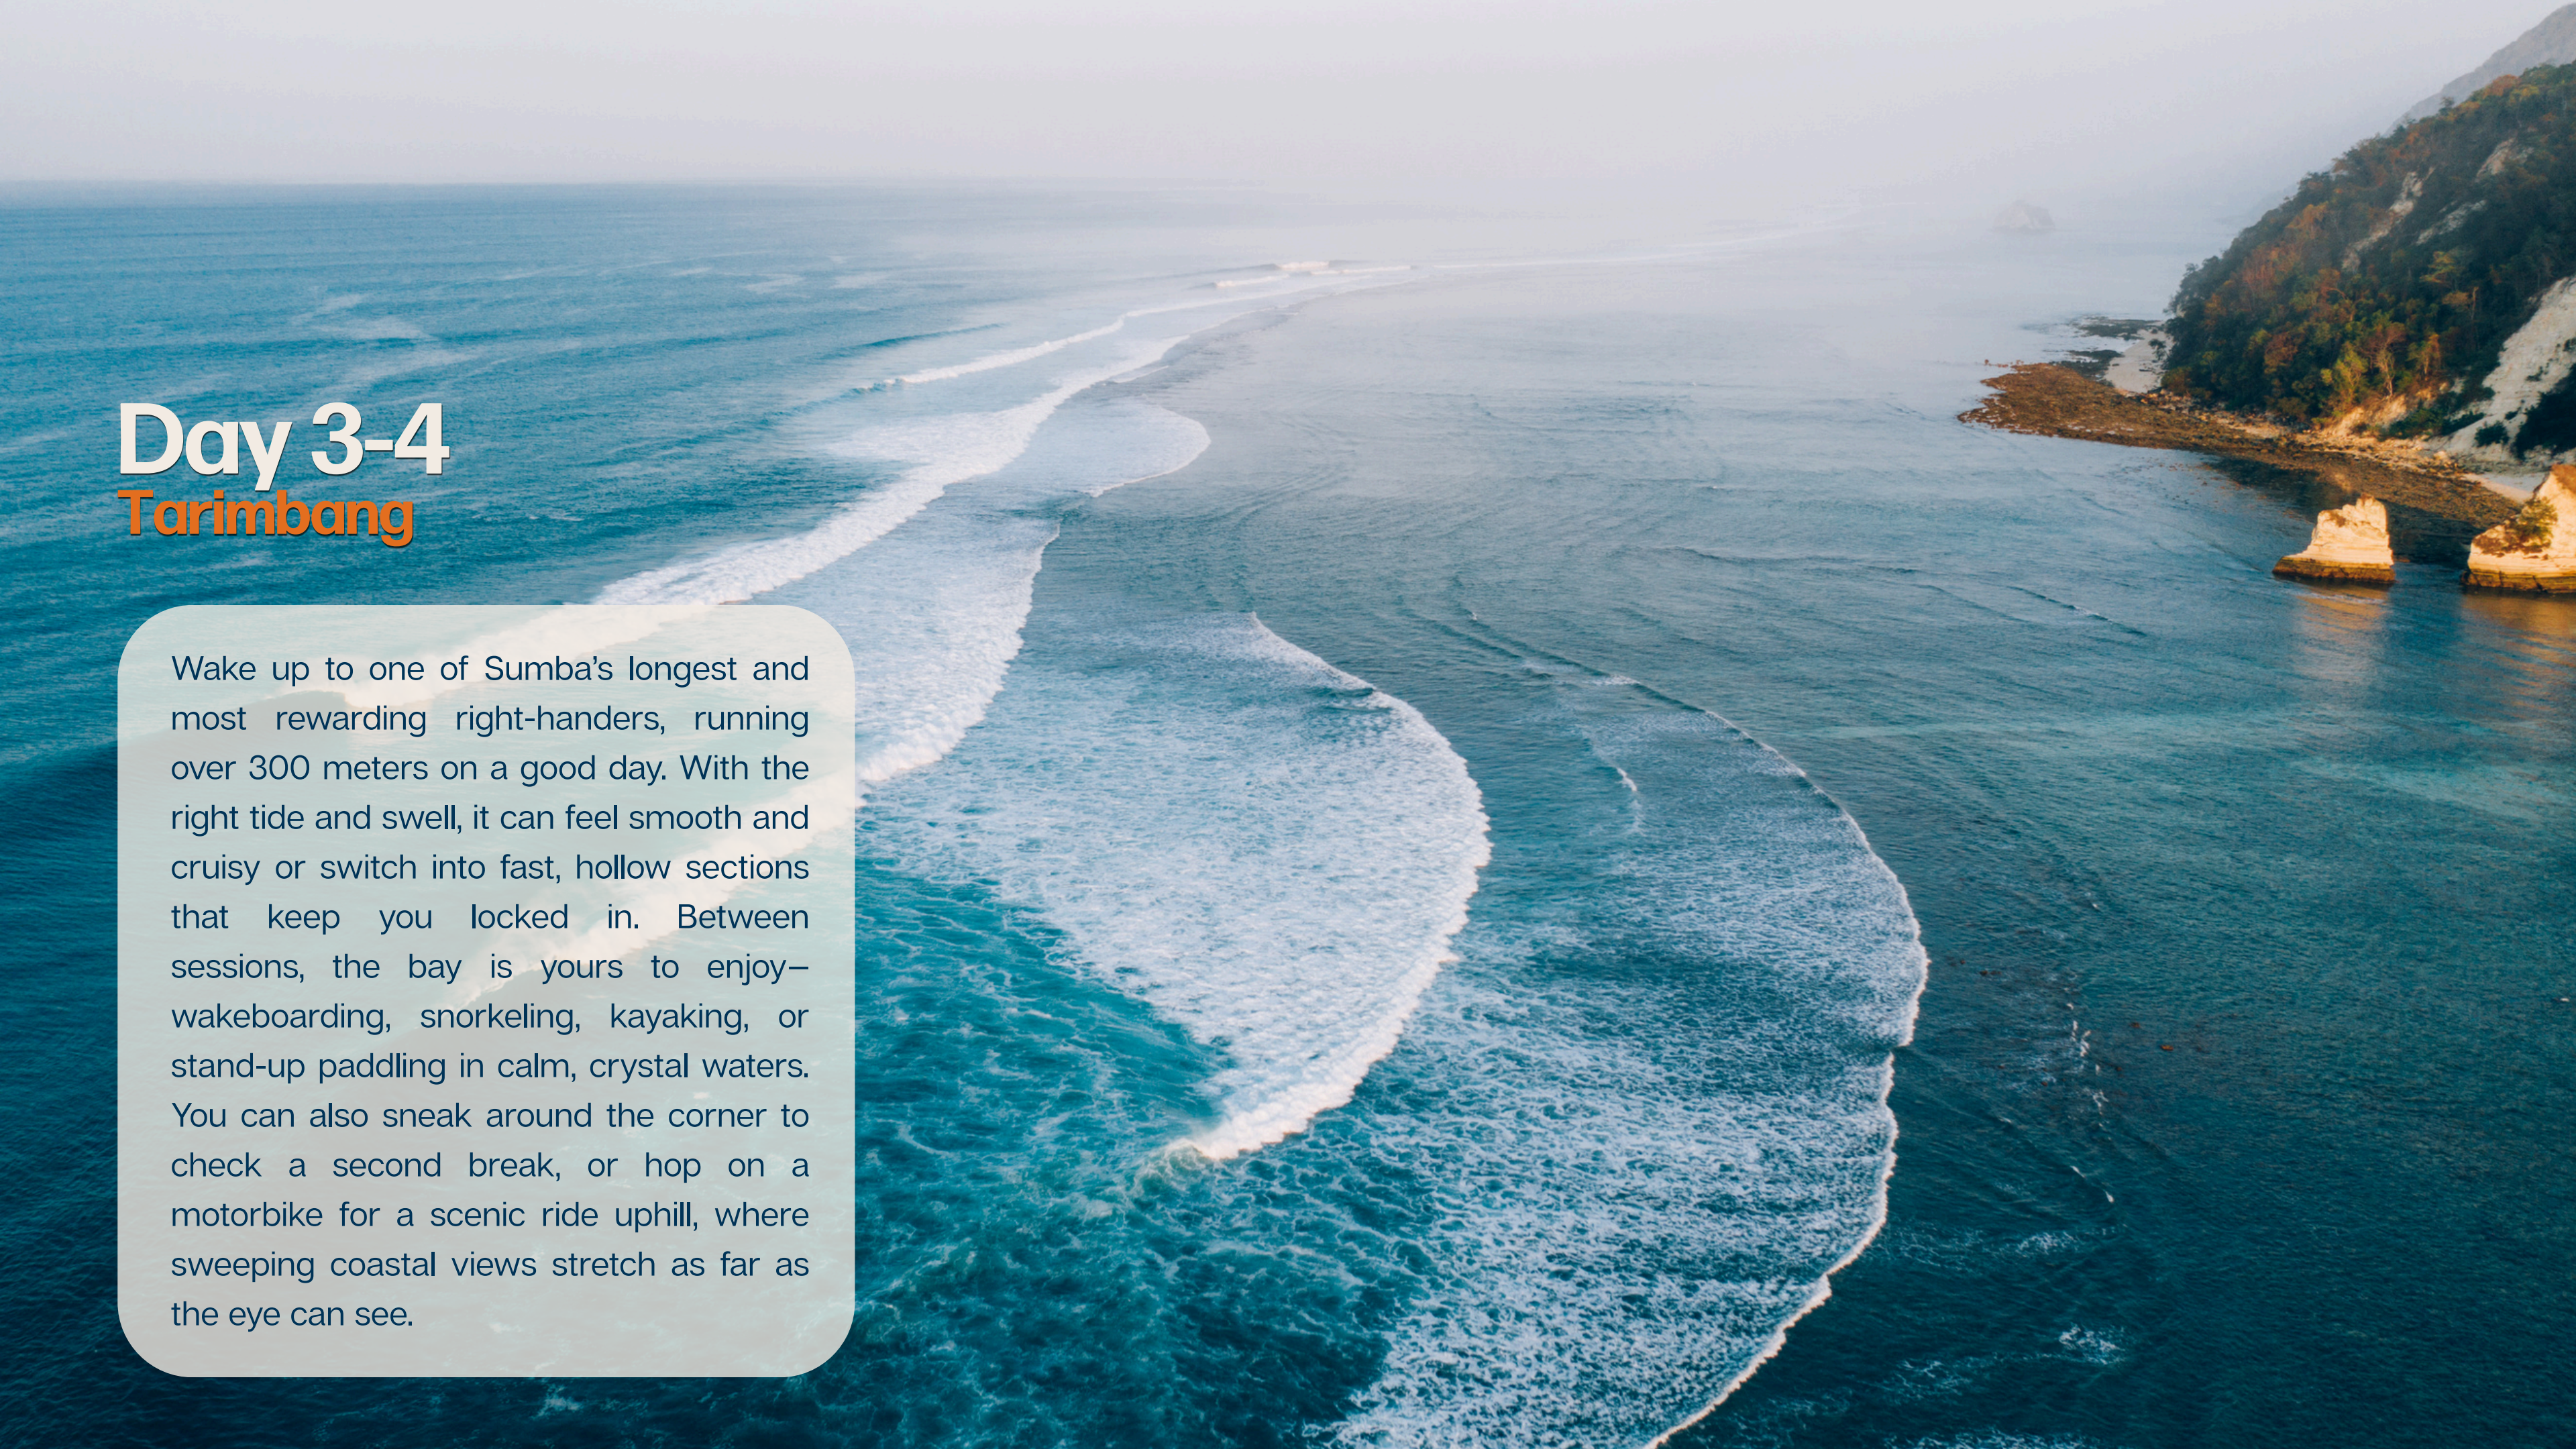

We wake anchored off a megalithic village—stone-age in heritage, quiet and rooted in tradition—with a clean left-hander peeling out front. It's the perfect welcome: a chance to shake off the travel dust and ease into the rhythm. The wave is playful, with the potential to fire, and nearby breaks offer variety when conditions align. Later, we might paddle out again for a golden-hour session—empty lineup, soft light, and that slow, glowing end-of-day magic.

Day 3-4

Tarimbang

Wake up to one of Sumba's longest and most rewarding right-handers, running over 300 meters on a good day. With the right tide and swell, it can feel smooth and cruisy or switch into fast, hollow sections that keep you locked in. Between sessions, the bay is yours to enjoy—wakeboarding, snorkeling, kayaking, or stand-up paddling in calm, crystal waters. You can also sneak around the corner to check a second break, or hop on a motorbike for a scenic ride uphill, where sweeping coastal views stretch as far as the eye can see.

Day 5-6

South Sumba

Two remote islands hide a handful of pristine breaks, including a reliable left and a more temperamental right—both powered by the full force of the Indian Ocean. Even when nearby coastlines fall quiet, there's almost always a wave to be found here. Arrive by dinghy through a narrow channel into a wild, untouched setting of rugged reefs, open horizons, and perfect, uncrowded lines—surfing at its most raw, exclusive, and beautifully remote.

Day 7

Chasing Waves

Guided by the swell, the wind, and your own rhythm, we'll roam Sumba's spectacularly uncrowded coastline—quiet beaches, hidden lefts and rights, and remote breaks known only to a select few. When the ocean softens, trade salt spray for a waterfall tucked deep in the hills or a visit to a traditional bamboo village for an authentic glimpse of Sumba's living culture. Then, when conditions align, the finale is unforgettable: an all-day surf from first light to golden sunset, followed by cocktails at your private Kudanil Beach Club as the horizon ignites.

Day 8-9

Savu Islands & Surroundings

This stretch truly comes alive when the ocean turns on—playful lefts and fast, hollow rights that can be temperamental, but absolutely world-class when they line up. When the swell eases, we step ashore on an island still untouched by tourism, where ritual dances weave together Christian and animist traditions. Wander through timeless villages where women hand-weave ikat, seaweed dries in the sun, and salt is harvested the old way. And when the waves return, expect a quick, zippy left at low tide and a powerful wedge surging off the cliffs—wild, remote, and full of beautiful surprises.

Day 10-11

Rote & Surroundings

Rote, Indonesia's southernmost island and the closest to Australia, offers a rare blend of world-class surf and serene, untouched beauty. T-Land delivers its iconic long lefts over clear water, while beneath the surface manta rays drift through vibrant, living reefs. Life here moves at an unhurried pace—warm, quiet, and effortlessly authentic. As the day fades, unwind on a secluded beach with a cocktail in hand, watching the sunset set the horizon alight.

Day 12

Disembarkation

After breakfast, we bid farewell. Take a final moment to breathe in the ocean air before your transfer to Kupang Airport—heading home with new stories and surf-washed memories.
